Masked Men Intimidate Crew and Enter Express Car.

They Escape on the Locomotive, but Get No Booty.

STOCKTON, Cal., March 9.-The train known as the European mail was held up near Carter's Switch, about four miles from this city, at 10.30 last night. The robbers got nothing. The story of hold-up as told by Engineer Ingles is as follows: "A snort distance from Carter's Switch myself and Fireman House were startled by a man who crawled over the tender and, pointing a pistol at our heads, ordered us to stop the train. He was masked. I stopped the engine, and the fellow then ordered us to get off, which we did. Two other masked men were standing on the ground waiting for us.

They ordered us to walk back to the express car, the men telling me to instruct the messenger to open the door up the car if the door was not opened. I told the messenger this and he fired two shots at the robbers. A passenger lows and one of the robbers fired a shot absent at the State Capital, was brought here with an additional force of officers on a special engine. With the aid of two bloodhounds the officers are confident of striking the trail of the robbers soon.

When the train was stopped the bandis fired repeatedly towards the passenger coaches as a warning to luquisitive travellers. A tramp who was stealing a ride on the blind baggage is the only person who can give a specific description of the robbers.

He stated at Lodi that when the train stopped he saw one of the robbers without his mask on. The fellow spoke to the tramp and told him that if he opened his head ne would lose it, and he was made to walk to the express car with the engineer and fireman.

He heard one of the robbers say that they had a buggy in which they could ride off after leaving the engine. The robbers did not attempt to open the safe, because the Oregon express was only the hour behind and they had to leave if fore that train approached or run it rick of being captured.

TRAMPS CAPTURE A TRAIN.

Near Baltimore.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 9.gang of about fifty tramps captured the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Baltimore freight train, from Baltimore, last night. The train was due in this city about 11.30 o'clock, and the tramps got on the train just outside of Baltimore and at once began to abuse the train-men.

and at once began to access the trainmen.

Conductor Reilly and his crew were powerless. A few of the gang had revolvers and all were armed with knives and clubs. One brakeman was caught on top of a car and beaten. In the fight this lamps were broken and the tramps attempted to force him from the car. He managed to escaps and took refuge on the engine. At Chase station the trainmen were all driven from the tops of the cars and it was expected that an attack would be made on the engine.

But after the tramps had secured possession of the train they began quarrelling among themselves, and one man was thrown from the train, and it is supposed fatally injured, if not killed outright.

was thrown from the train, and it is supposed fatally injured, if not killed outright.

Conductor Reilly telegraphed to this city for assistance, and when the train reached the west yard here, there were about fifty policemen in waiting. As soon as the train was brought to a stop, the trainmy jumped from the cars and started to run across the fields. The heavy fog prevented the officers from capturing many of the men, but after a running fight, in which several shots were fired, the officers succeeded in capturing eleven.

"They got nothing whatever. After satisfying themselves that there was nothing of value outside of the safe, and that that had been securely locked, they jumped out of the car and went shead to the engine again.

"Reaching the engine, the men uncoupled it from the train, and firing some shots at the passenger cars to to care their occupants, I suppose, pulled the throttle and started towards Lodi. A brakeman was sent back to Stockton to find ghe Oregon express, which was soon to come along, and we waited until the engine came from Lodi."

The engine of the European mail pulled into Lodi about II.05 P. M., going very slowly, with no one aboard, and registering but forty pounds of steam. George Andrews, the engineer of a freight train, lying there waiting for the overland to pass, got aboard and stopped her. A stick of dynamite was found on the seat in the cab, and it was apparent thereshad been a hold-up.

Ludi officers took the engine of the freight train and went after the train shortly (refer midnight, and it proceeded north with its own engine.

A posse was gathered quickly, and the veteran Sheriff of the county, who was absent at the State Capital, was brought here with an additional force of officers on a special engine. With the said of two bloodhounds the officers are confident of striking the trail of the robbers soon.

Union Men Anticipated the Lockout Goods May Still Be Sent Under Bond

(Special to The Evening World.)
WASHINGTON, March 9.—The Treasvry Department sent out telegrams yesterday, notifying Collectors of Custom of the auspension of the privilege of shipment of goods in bond across the United States into the Mexican free sone, under section 3.006, that section having been repealed on March 1. Goods now in transit will be allowed to go through, but from now on the spe-

Shippers may, under Section 3,000 of the Revised Statutes, withdraw goods after examination in transit from one warehouse and send them under bond to a warehouse in El Paso, for instance, and then export them into the free sone by giving a bond to exhibit a bill of landing, showing that they have been exported.

Only in case the seals are found to have been broken in transit from one warehouse to the other can the Government exact duty on the goods.

This will cause som delay, but will not prevent the passage of goods through the United States. It was due to an oversight that further restriction was not put around the transhipment of goods under section 3,000. leges of the free sone are misused to an

The original design, prepared several years ago, is still in hand. It contemplated a ten-story building to cost $1,60,000. Congress has now extended the limit which it placed on the cost from $1,-000,000 to the figure set by the Supervising Architect, but owing to the great fall in the cost of material and the other expenses of building, as much better building can be constructed inside the limit than was originally designed.

FOUND IN BROADWAY.

Man Said to Be Charles Bradigan Was Probably Robbed.

A man, thirty years old, was found unconscious on the sidewalk in front of 255 birondway late last night. There was a severe cut on his head and he was without either coat or hat. He was well dressed, had dark eyes, sandy mustache and wore dark trousers and lace shoes. There was nothing on his person by which he could be identified. He was taken to the Hudson Street Hospital.

At the hospital it was stated to-day that the man was Charles Bradigan. No one had called to identify him and he was still unconscious. How the identification was made the hospital authorities refused to say.

Bradigan has a scalp wound and it was stated, was suffering from alcoholism.

Bradigan was nicked up in front of
